

Rhonda Rosemond is a finance and real estate professional with a diverse background in accounting, credit analysis, and residential real estate. With experience helping clients make informed financial decisions, she combines analytical expertise with a client-first approach. In addition to her work in real estate, Rhonda has served as a Patient Navigator for breast cancer survivors, providing compassionate guidance and support throughout their care journey. She is committed to serving others with integrity, professionalism, and a genuine passion for helping people achieve their goals.